

PSGB Spring Meeting 2007: Sex & Violence!

Wednesday and Thursday 18-19 April 2007, Elvet Riverside Lecture Hall, Durham University

Program:

The PSGB Spring Meeting 2007 will take place over Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday on the 18th and 19th April 2007 in the Elvet Riverside Lecture Halls, Durham University. The theme is 'Sex & Violence' and our invited speakers will address aspects of this topic over the course of the two days. Confirmed speakers include Robin Dunbar (Liverpool), Allison Jolly (Sussex), Dave Perrett (St Andrews) and Peter Kappeler (Göttingen). We welcome offers of oral presentations and posters on any topic for the remainder of the conference, and particularly encourage post-graduate students to present their research. There will be prizes for the best postgraduate presentation and poster and up to 10 student bursaries of £50 each are available to students giving oral presentations. Abstracts for posters and presentations should be sent to Erik Willems (e.p.willems@durham.ac.uk) before the deadline of Friday March 23rd. A full program will be posted as soon as it is available.

Registration:

Registration fees for the conference are as follows:

PSGB Members:		Non-Members
Student	£15	Student	£25
Non-Student	£25	Non-Student	£45

Registration will be on the day of the conference, although delegates wishing to register in advance can do so using the pre-registration form at www.psgb.org.

Accommodation:

We have reserved a number of student bedrooms at the Castle (see www.dur.ac.uk/university.college/) costing less than £35 per night. These can be booked by contacting Todd Rae (t.c.rae@durham.ac.uk) and payment will need to be made in advance. Alternatively, Durham is a small city and virtually all hotels and guest houses within the DH1 postcode region should be within walking distance of the conference venue. Some possible hotels and guest houses are listed below or see www.durhamtourism.co.uk/accomm.html.
